In BRISE Vienna, the City of Vienna is developing a fully digitized tool for the verification and permit of new buildings. Meet the people behind this bold venture and see, how a range of dedicated municipal staff can change the way cities operate!

In this article I have already described the role of the municipal staff for securing long-lasting success of an urban innovation. We wanted to understand, how Vienna is engaging staff from the building authority to develop a new, digital process which will ultimately result in quicker and better decision making.

See, how they do it in this Video:
